

WOULD NOT CONFESS

Rev. G. E. Morrison Died at Dallas
Asserting His Innocence.

HE WAS HANGED FOR WIFE MURDER

Motive Was to Marry Another
Woman, an Heiress.

HISTORY OF THE CRIME

DALLAS, TEXAS, October 27.—Rev. G. E. Morrison was hanged at 12 o'clock noon today at Vernon, Texas, for wife murder. He met his death calmly. On the scaffold he said to the select party of twenty witnesses permitted at the execution:

"I am innocent. Circumstances over which I had no control have placed me in this position. I have taken my trouble in private to my God. I admit that I have acted indiscreetly. I have done wrong, however, than hundreds of men who stand high in the religious, social, business and official circles of your state. I have done nothing to confess. I am in the hands of my Maker. He knows I am innocent." Morrison's neck was broken, and his death appeared to be painless.

History of the Crime.

The crime for which Rev. G. E. Morrison paid the death penalty was the poisoning of his wife in October, 1897. The motive for the crime was to rid himself of a pretty, amiable, loving, devoted wife, who had lately possessed of means, $100,000 of which was in cash.

Morrison married his deceased wife about seventeen years ago. At one time they lived in California, then in Oklahoma territory, from which place they moved to Pannamint, Texas, where the crime was committed. He was born and reared in Illinois and went to school at Carbondale. There he became acquainted with Miss Anna Whiteley, who subsequently moved with her parents to Dallas.

In August previous to the poisoning of his wife in October, 1897, Morrison met Miss Whiteley, his school days' sweetheart, ascertained her financial condition and made an offer of marriage. He pretended that his wife had been dead eleven years, that he had been in Oklahoma territory, from which place they moved to Pannamint, Texas, where the crime was committed. He was born and reared in Illinois and went to school at Carbondale. There he became acquainted with Miss Anna Whiteley, who subsequently moved with her parents to Dallas.

Purchase of Strychnine.

He procured strychnine for the ostensible purpose of poisoning animals which, he said, were catching his chickens. On the day previous he had procured a box of quinine with empty capsules. On Friday night before her death Mrs. Morrison went to the Dallas Bell Ringers, leaving Morrison at home, who said he had to prepare his Sunday sermon. The next morning he took the strychnine back to the druggist, telling him that he was afraid to use it, for fear he would poison his chickens. The package had been opened. Sunday night he preached and alluded in a pathetic manner to the parting with loved ones at the most lovely of deaths. He alluded to the fact that he had been in Oklahoma territory, from which place they moved to Pannamint, Texas, where the crime was committed. He was born and reared in Illinois and went to school at Carbondale. There he became acquainted with Miss Anna Whiteley, who subsequently moved with her parents to Dallas.

WATKINS' SUSPENSION MODIFIED.

He Ran the Paris Ashore Through an Error.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Captain George H. Starbuck, United States supervising inspector of steam vessels, has modified the order of the local board of inspectors in suspending the license of Captain Frederick H. Watkins of the American Line steamship Paris for two years, because of its running that vessel on the rocks near the Manacles, off the coast of Cornwall, on May 21 last. The ruling of the supervising inspector suspends the license of Captain Watkins for six months, dating from yesterday, October 22. This action is taken on the plea of Captain Watkins that the grounding of the Paris was due to an error on his part and not to carelessness.

EXPECTS MORE LOSSES.

Lord Rosebery Discusses the Situation of his Early Visit to Tokyo.

LONDON, October 27.—Lord Rosebery, in a speech at a private dinner of politicians Wednesday, referred to the war and the heavy loss of life, saying that they had to deplore the death of Gen. Symons, and before they sheathed the sword there would be many more such losses.

STATISTICS OF CUBA'S RESOURCES.

Senor Capote's Order to Governors to Collect Them.

HAVANA, October 27.—Senor Domingo Mendez Capote, head of the department of government, has ordered the governors of the provinces to furnish particulars of all mines within their jurisdiction; also to obtain from the mayors the number of cattle in each district.

Col. Aca, at one time a member of the staff of the late Gen. Antonio Maceo, is starting a paper. It is named El Veterano and is to be devoted to fostering "fraternity, union and concord."

All the port captains of the Island of Cuba have been placed under the command of Capt. Lucien Young.

STRIKING MINERS IN A FIGHT.

Two of the Union Men Shot, One Probably Fatally.

DECATUR, Ill., October 27.—The first serious fight of the coal miners' strike, which was declared seven weeks ago, occurred here today. Two union miners were shot, one probably fatally, in a clash between union and non-union men. The latter were supported by twelve policemen and six deputy sheriffs.

The fight occurred at a mine entrance, when four non-union miners attempted to go to work. Fred Donkowski, a striker, was wounded, probably fatally. Charles Williams, another striker, received a bullet in the arm. Several others were made.

WANT WOMEN TO RIDE STRADDLE.

Cleveland Reformers Would Also Stop Men From Doing So.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, October 27.—At a meeting of the Cleveland Health Protective Association here today the first steps in the crusade against side saddles for women was taken. The crusade is undertaken for the benefit of the health of the horse and the woman. Strong resolutions were adopted, recommending the use of the side saddles by women, and recommending the use of divided skirts and high top shoes by men. The ladies discussed the question of preventing excitation on the sidewalks.

SAMPSON OFF TO PALMYRA.

Escorted to Station in Rochester by George H. Thomas Post.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., October 27.—Rear Admiral Wm. T. Sampson, after spending a very quiet twenty-four hours in this city, left at 10 o'clock this morning over the New York Central for Palmyra, the village of his birth, where preparations have been making for some time to extend him a welcome. The admiral and his wife were escorted to the station by the George H. Thomas Post, G. A. R., headed by the 54th Regiment Band, and a great crowd of people were in and about the depot to see him off.

An invitation extended to Rear Admiral Sampson some time ago to visit this city as the guest at the annual dinner of the chamber of commerce has been accepted. The banquet will take place about the middle of December.

Charged With Stealing a Race Horse.

NEW YORK, October 27.—John E. Heron of Chicago is a prisoner in Long Island City today, accused of stealing a race horse valued at $10,000 from Warren C. Carpenter, also of Chicago. Heron denied that he was the man wanted, but was held in default of $5,000 as a guarantee from justice until next Wednesday. He was arrested at the Aqueduct race track yesterday. The animal has not yet been recovered.

INSURGENT OFFER DECLINED.

Agulandino's Government Wants to Discuss Peace Terms.

The War Department has received the following:

MANILA, October 27.

Insurgent government submitted application to send five commissioners to Manila to discuss difficulties attending release of Spanish reek prisoners and discuss peace conditions.

Declined. No negotiations necessary, as we would gladly receive all Spanish prisoners at our lines, welcome them from their cruel captivity and labor for their welfare. Correspondence by mail.

(Signed) OTIS.

WILL NOT RECOGNIZE CASTRO.

Foreign Ministers at Caracas Await Instructions from Home.

CARACAS, Venezuela, October 27.—The foreign ministers met yesterday at the American legation and decided not to recognize the Castro government without instructions from their respective governments.

President Andrade has called from Barcelona where he arrived recently, to the command of Puerto Cabello to defend that city against General Castro to the last extremity.

General Andrade has surrendered to General Castro to twelve years imprisonment.

Order reigns here.

ALL QUIET AT NACO.

Company of United States Troops Near Mexican Border.

PHOENIX, Ariz., October 27.—Acting Governor Akers has received a telegram from Naco, Mexico, saying everything is quiet on the international line after the battle of Sunday, and that the army probably will be ordered to defend the town against General Castro to the last extremity.

President Andrade has called from Barcelona where he arrived recently, to the command of Puerto Cabello to defend that city against General Castro to the last extremity.

General Andrade has surrendered to General Castro to twelve years imprisonment.

Order reigns here.

FAVORS MERCHANT MARINE.

Secretary Long Writes on Subject to Cleveland Papers.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, October 27.—Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, in a letter to a local paper, says he is heartily in favor of the upbuilding of the merchant marine, and presents three reasons for favoring the same, as follows:

First, by reason of the financial return which it would follow from carrying our constantly increasing exports.

Second, from the increased business it would give our shipyards; and

Third, because it would furnish a reserve of seamen, which the navy could draw in case of war.

HE RAN THE PARIS ASHORE THROUGH AN ERROR.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Captain George H. Starbuck, United States supervising inspector of steam vessels, has modified the order of the local board of inspectors in suspending the license of Captain Frederick H. Watkins of the American Line steamship Paris for two years, because of its running that vessel on the rocks near the Manacles, off the coast of Cornwall, on May 21 last. The ruling of the supervising inspector suspends the license of Captain Watkins for six months, dating from yesterday, October 22. This action is taken on the plea of Captain Watkins that the grounding of the Paris was due to an error on his part and not to carelessness.

EXPECTS MORE LOSSES.

Lord Rosebery Discusses the Situation of his Early Visit to Tokyo.

LONDON, October 27.—Lord Rosebery, in a speech at a private dinner of politicians Wednesday, referred to the war and the heavy loss of life, saying that they had to deplore the death of Gen. Symons, and before they sheathed the sword there would be many more such losses.

STATISTICS OF CUBA'S RESOURCES.

Senor Capote's Order to Governors to Collect Them.

HAVANA, October 27.—Senor Domingo Mendez Capote, head of the department of government, has ordered the governors of the provinces to furnish particulars of all mines within their jurisdiction; also to obtain from the mayors the number of cattle in each district.

Col. Aca, at one time a member of the staff of the late Gen. Antonio Maceo, is starting a paper. It is named El Veterano and is to be devoted to fostering "fraternity, union and concord."

All the port captains of the Island of Cuba have been placed under the command of Capt. Lucien Young.

STRIKING MINERS IN A FIGHT.

Two of the Union Men Shot, One Probably Fatally.

DECATUR, Ill., October 27.—The first serious fight of the coal miners' strike, which was declared seven weeks ago, occurred here today. Two union miners were shot, one probably fatally, in a clash between union and non-union men. The latter were supported by twelve policemen and six deputy sheriffs.

The fight occurred at a mine entrance, when four non-union miners attempted to go to work. Fred Donkowski, a striker, was wounded, probably fatally. Charles Williams, another striker, received a bullet in the arm. Several others were made.

WANT WOMEN TO RIDE STRADDLE.

Cleveland Reformers Would Also Stop Men From Doing So.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, October 27.—At a meeting of the Cleveland Health Protective Association here today the first steps in the crusade against side saddles for women was taken. The crusade is undertaken for the benefit of the health of the horse and the woman. Strong resolutions were adopted, recommending the use of the side saddles by women, and recommending the use of divided skirts and high top shoes by men. The ladies discussed the question of preventing excitation on the sidewalks.

SAMPSON OFF TO PALMYRA.

Escorted to Station in Rochester by George H. Thomas Post.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., October 27.—Rear Admiral Wm. T. Sampson, after spending a very quiet twenty-four hours in this city, left at 10 o'clock this morning over the New York Central for Palmyra, the village of his birth, where preparations have been making for some time to extend him a welcome. The admiral and his wife were escorted to the station by the George H. Thomas Post, G. A. R., headed by the 54th Regiment Band, and a great crowd of people were in and about the depot to see him off.

An invitation extended to Rear Admiral Sampson some time ago to visit this city as the guest at the annual dinner of the chamber of commerce has been accepted. The banquet will take place about the middle of December.

Charged With Stealing a Race Horse.

NEW YORK, October 27.—John E. Heron of Chicago is a prisoner in Long Island City today, accused of stealing a race horse valued at $10,000 from Warren C. Carpenter, also of Chicago. Heron denied that he was the man wanted, but was held in default of $5,000 as a guarantee from justice until next Wednesday. He was arrested at the Aqueduct race track yesterday. The animal has not yet been recovered.

LEWIS YEAGER'S SENTENCE

Goes to the Penitentiary for a Term of Twelve Years.

Was Convicted of a Gross Crime—Notice Given of an Appeal.

Lewis J. Yeager, the attorney, who was recently convicted of assaulting Edith Schneebel, a girl under sixteen years of age, was this afternoon sentenced by Justice Clabaugh to imprisonment at hard labor in the West Virginia penitentiary for the term of twelve years.

The crime was committed the 1st of last March, and it will be recalled that Yeager, after being arrested, was placed in a room at the sixth precinct station, from which he escaped through a transom over the door. He was apprehended a few days later and was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury. He was promptly indicted, and at his trial before Justice Clabaugh the jury returned a verdict of guilty after a few moments' deliberation.

His attorney filed a motion for a new trial and it was granted today. In overruling the motion Justice Clabaugh said the man had enjoyed a fair trial and had, in the opinion of the court, been properly convicted.

Assistant District Attorney Gould said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.

Yeager's attorney, the secretary of the government, said that sentence be at once pronounced, and although Yeager and his attorneys pleaded that sentence be delayed until they could file a certificate of the jail physician showing the physical condition of the prisoner, the judge said he saw no reason why sentence should not be pronounced.